Construction Safety: 30 November - 04 December 2015

The “Winter Holiday” season is unlike our other holidays. Instead of a day or a long weekend, the holiday period lasts a couple of weeks. All during that time shopping is being done, parties are being given (and attended), trips are being made, relatives and friends are arriving (and staying), huge meals are being prepared and eaten, and, well, the list goes on and on.

Our coworkers are under a lot of stress during this time, and it can reflect on our safe work place. The stressors lead to distracted workers, and the time off can lead to a “return to reality” lag after the holidays are over. We need to be on the lookout for distracted coworkers or coworkers who are becoming “stressed out.” We need to spend additional time with our people, observing their performance, but also making sure they know that we are genuinely interested in them and any issues or problems they have.

It is also a good idea to take a little extra time with your coworkers at the beginning of their first workday after a holiday absence. A short (30 minute) “welcome back stand down” may be a good way to get everyone refocused on the workplace and their safety. You can take the time to pass out information they may have missed, and let the returning coworkers get back “in the swing.”

Have a Safe and Prosperous Holiday Season!

Informational:

- B Test Stand Tarmac: A fall restraint anchorage was created to make safe the concrete demo by the bulkhead water edge trench. The restraint was created such that the worker can only extend to the edge, and the worker can't move any farther forward. This eliminates the need for water rescue and work flotation devices.

Mishaps / Close Calls: 2

-Mishaps: 2

1. On 12/15/15, A sub-contracted employee was moving a loaded 55 gallon drum with a dolly when the drum shifted. The employee's left hand was pinned between the drum and a scaffold bar. The employee properly reported the incident and received first aid treatment on site and stated the hand was fine after being iced down. Employee returned to work. Later, the employee went to an off-site clinic and received a prescription medication, making this case an OSHA recordable or NASA Type D Mishap.
2. On 12/17/15, A sub-contracted employee reached to protect another employee from being struck by a pipe and in doing so, the employee's right pinky finger was injured when it was smashed between the pipe and a door frame. The pipe was being carried by a third employee. The injured employee ultimately received a broken right pinky finger tip with laceration. The finger was repaired with a pin and five stitches. The employee was placed on restricted duty, making this case an OSHA recordable or NASA Type C Mishap.

OSHA's Form 300A (Rev. 01/2004)

Summary of Work-Related Injuries and Illnesses

Year 20__

U.S. Department of Labor
Occupational Safety and Health Administration
Form approved OMB no. 1284-0101

All establishments covered by Part 1904 must complete this Summary page, even if no work-related injuries or illnesses occurred during the year. Remember to review the Log to verify that the entries are complete and accurate before completing this summary.

Using the Log, count the individual entries you made for each category. Then write the totals below, making sure you've audited the entries from every page of the Log. If you had no cases, write "0."

Employees, former employees, and their representatives have the right to review the OSHA Form 300 in its entirety. They also have limited access to the OSHA Form 301 or its equivalent. See 29 CFR Part 1904.35, in OSHA's recordkeeping rule, for further details on the access provisions for these forms.
